Edited by Lydio E. Tomasi

Proceedings of the 1995 Annual National Legal Conference

Immigration and U.S. Citizenship Refugees, Asylum Reform and Resettlement Immigrants: Refugees and Reform of U.S. Health Care Immigration Reform - Immigration and State-Federal Reforms Consequences of the Immigration Act of 1990

Volume XIXI

IN DEFENSE OF THE ALIEN
In America, based on constitutional rights for all people, who provided a vision for the future of immigration policy.

Commission on Immigration Reform

Congresswoman, scholars, and citizens of the Hon. Barbara Jordan,

This volume is gratefully dedicated to the memory of the

PRINTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

95-42361

95-02173 4 95

1 VP5-A-N97 1 95

P. cm. - (in defence of the alien; ISSN 0775-634X. v. 18)

Proceedings of the 1995 Annual National Legal Conference on Immigration and

H. DC

Library of Congress Card Catalog: Publication Data

Schaaf House, New York: 1995-11-1

The Center for Migration Studies of New York, Inc.

Copyright © 1995 by

First Edition

Referees Policy: implemented and restored - Immigration and U.S. Citizenship

Immigration and Refugee Policy: implemented and restored or U.S. Citizenship

Commission on Immigration Reform of 1986 - Immigration Reform

Commission of the Immigration Reform Act of 1986 - Immigration Reform

CMS is an educational nonprofit institute founded in New York in 1996 committed

VOLUME X:III

IN DEFENSE OF THE ALIEN

Series

IN DEFENSE OF THE ALIEN. This text represents the eighteenth volume of this

IN DEFENSE OF THE ALIEN. The text represents the eighteenth volume of the
THE DEVIOUS DESIGN OF PROPOSITION 187 AND THE LEGAL FRIGHT

more difficult and longer process.
A more comprehensive plan, which acknowledges the the existing institutional structures and political forces on both sides of the which can result in such a way if we improve our working proposed an alternative vision of the future in which a broad and inclusive demonstrated that it is also possible to achieve transformative not only is clear that the Proposition 187 proponents exaggerate the and mobilize for an alternative policy direction.

that Proposition 187 responded to concern about illegal immigration and by creating job opportunities for illegal immigrants.

Proposition 187 / America's Latest Target Anti-Immigrant Legislation

American Labor and Human Rights Protest Desert's Last Stand

10
In Defense of the Alien

As some politicians in Texas and other states continue to charge and promote Proposition 187, there is an urgent need to remind everyone of the fundamental principles that underlie our society.

The rights of Texas First are protected by Texas business interests.

This issue is not a new one, and it is not unique to Texas. Similar initiatives have been proposed in other states, and they have met with significant resistance.

The proposed measure, Proposition 187, would deny legal rights and services to unauthorized immigrants in Texas.

Proposition 187 would:

- Deny access to public education, healthcare, and other benefits to unauthorized immigrants.
- Establish a "show proof of legal status" requirement for commerce and employment.
- Increase state funding for border patrol and law enforcement.

Proposition 187 is a thinly veiled attempt to target and harm immigrants in Texas. It is a violation of fundamental civil liberties and human rights.

We stand against Proposition 187 and its attempts to undermine the principles of equality and justice that underpin our society.

In Defense of the Alien

The Drive to Nationalize Proposition 187

Spreading the Flanges of Nationalism

The proposed measure is not only harmful to immigrants but also represents a broader threat to our democratic values.

In Defense of the Alien

In Defense of the Alien
The experience of Proposition 187 forcefully imparts this lesson. The expression of Proposition 187's hostility toward the federal government—the most powerful and least accountable instrument of the national power—is the authority to regulate immigration. The Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution, Art. I, § 8, cl. 4, expressly extends to Congress the power to regulate immigration. This capacity is the most important, if not the sole, means to defend the interests of the citizens of the United States. The power to regulate immigration is necessary to Congress' power to regulate commerce with foreign countries, to regulate commerce between the States, and to regulate the general welfare of the United States. The power to regulate immigration is thus a power inalienable and basic to the American way of life. It is the core of national sovereignty.

LEGAL CHALLENGES TO PROPOSITION 1B

The proposals in Proposition 187 are the clearest examples of the trend toward state unilateralism. The proposals are

- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.

These proposals are not only inconsistent with the Constitution,
but they also undermine the principles that underlie our

- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.

These proposals are not only inconsistent with the Constitution,
but they also undermine the principles that underlie our

- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.
- To deny public benefits to non-citizens.
- To require employers to verify the citizenship status of
  their employees.
- To require state officials to check the citizenship status
  of applicants for state services.

These proposals are not only inconsistent with the Constitution,
but they also undermine the principles that underlie our
In Defense of the Alien
A Critique of Natural Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: A Political Economy

be endorsed by the Supreme Court, though the initiative will probably not
decide to follow the reasoning of Proposition 13 will likely remain be inapplicable. However, the Court, which has relied on the reasoning of
the initiative, is unlikely to grant a

Proposition 13 and Proposition 18: APolitical Economy
In Defense of the Almon

The estimates in these studies are thus not only exaggerated but implicitly

Table 1

<table> <thead>
<tr>
<th>Fiscal Year</th>
<th>Federal</th> <th>State</th> <th>Local</th>
</tr> </thead> <tbody>
<tr>
<td>1991-92</td>
<td>3.72</td>
<td>0.54</td>
<td>2.98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1993-94</td>
<td>3.72</td>
<td>0.54</td>
<td>2.98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1995-96</td>
<td>3.72</td>
<td>0.54</td>
<td>2.98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1997-98</td>
<td>3.72</td>
<td>0.54</td>
<td>2.98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1999-00</td>
<td>3.72</td>
<td>0.54</td>
<td>2.98</td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>

California School Cost of Living Adjustment (CSLA)
In Defense of the Alien
In Defense of the Alien

Low-wage jobs by California employers will continue to lure the teeming in unceasing torrent to the land of milk and honey. The problem is that many of these workers are undocumented immigrants who do not have legal status in the United States. The consequence is that they are vulnerable to exploitation by employers who take advantage of their precarious position.

The United States has a long history of exploiting immigrant labor, particularly in the agriculture and construction industries. Despite ongoing efforts to address this issue, undocumented workers continue to face significant challenges in accessing basic rights and protections.

In recent years, there have been calls for reform in immigration policies, including proposals to provide a pathway to citizenship for undocumented immigrants. These efforts are aimed at addressing the underlying structural issues that contribute to the exploitation of immigrant labor.

However, some argue that such proposals would create more problems than they solve. They contend that providing legal status to all undocumented immigrants would lead to a influx of workers into the labor market, further depressing wages and conditions for all workers.

The debate over immigration policy is complex and multifaceted, with arguments on both sides. Ultimately, it is essential to ensure that all workers, regardless of their immigration status, are treated with dignity and respect, and that their rights are protected.

In the meantime, efforts should be made to support undocumented workers through existing legal channels, such as Temporary Protected Status or Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA).

It is important to recognize the significant contributions that undocumented workers make to the economy and society, and to work towards creating a more just and equitable system that upholds the rights and dignity of all workers.
Proposition 13, the California property tax law, mandates that property taxes be set at a rate equal to 1% of the market value of the property, and these taxes are assessed every year. The law also limits the amount by which property taxes can increase from year to year, known as the "assessments ceiling." This ceiling is currently set at 1.5% annually, but it can increase to 2% in years of high inflation.

The key provision of Proposition 13 is that it limits the ability of local governments to increase property taxes. This has had a significant impact on the funding of schools, hospitals, and other public services in California. For example, under Proposition 13, school districts are not allowed to increase their property tax revenue by more than 5% per year. This has led to a decline in the quality of education in many districts.

Proposition 13 also limits the ability of local governments to increase their property tax revenue by more than 5% per year. This has led to a decline in the quality of education in many districts. In addition, Proposition 13 has also had a significant impact on the ability of cities and counties to provide services such as public safety and public health.

Despite its many limitations, Proposition 13 has remained popular with voters because it provides reassurance that property tax increases will be limited. This has been especially true in recent years, as the California housing market has experienced a significant increase in property values.

In conclusion, Proposition 13 has had a significant impact on the funding of public services in California. While it has been popular with voters, it has also led to a decline in the quality of education and other public services in many districts.
different era than the present period which saw an explosion of Mexican employment in the labor intensive and low-skilled sectors. While the Mexican economy has experienced significant growth in recent years, the benefits of this growth have not been evenly distributed across all regions or sectors. Many areas continue to experience high levels of poverty and inequality. The challenge is to create jobs and economic opportunities for all segments of the population.

In this context, the Mexican government has implemented policies aimed at promoting economic growth and reducing poverty. However, the effectiveness of these policies is limited by structural factors such as the concentration of economic activity in certain regions, the lack of access to education and training, and the limited opportunities for women and younger people. These factors contribute to the persistence of poverty and inequality in Mexico.

The government has also recognized the importance of promoting economic growth and reducing poverty through education and training. The National Program for Educational Improvement (PRODEP) has been implemented to provide access to education and training opportunities for all segments of the population. However, the success of this program depends on the effectiveness of its implementation and the ability of the government to ensure that the benefits of education and training are distributed fairly.

In conclusion, while Mexico has made progress in reducing poverty and inequality, there is still a long way to go. The government must continue to prioritize economic growth and development with a focus on creating jobs and providing opportunities for all segments of the population. This requires a comprehensive approach that addresses the structural factors that contribute to poverty and inequality and ensures that the benefits of economic growth are distributed fairly.

In Defense of the Alien

Altruistic and political motivation involved in upholding immigration policies with government agencies and study of the sharing of such information with government agencies

In Defense of the Alien

In Defense of the Alien
North America

The economic progress of North America is often attributed to the high productivity and wages enjoyed by its workers. This is partly due to the country's commitment to education and innovation, which has led to significant advancements in technology and industries. North America is also known for its diverse cultures and languages, which contribute to its rich artistic and literary traditions. However, economic inequalities persist, with significant disparities in income and wealth between different regions and social groups. The pursuit of economic growth and development continues to be a priority for policymakers, as they strive to create a more inclusive and equitable society.

In Defense of the Alien

In Defense of the Alien

C.L. Dod's (1896) novel, "The Servant of the Queen," explores the themes of servitude and freedom. The story follows the life of a young man who is sold into slavery and must find a way to escape his tyrannical master. The novel is a powerful commentary on the human condition and the struggle for freedom. It is a classic example of speculative fiction, and its ideas have influenced many other works of literature and film. The novel's themes of power, control, and rebellion continue to resonate with readers today, serving as a reminder of the importance of individual liberty and the need for social justice.

The Servant of the Queen

C.L. Dod (1896)
Section 6 Authorized Action

Section 6 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of licensed clinics
- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 7 Authorized Action

Section 7 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 8 Authorized Action

Section 8 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 9 Authorized Action

Section 9 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 10 Authorized Action

Section 10 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 11 Authorized Action

Section 11 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 12 Authorized Action

Section 12 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 13 Authorized Action

Section 13 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 14 Authorized Action

Section 14 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 15 Authorized Action

Section 15 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 16 Authorized Action

Section 16 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 17 Authorized Action

Section 17 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services

Section 18 Authorized Action

Section 18 of the proposition allows for the following actions:

- Expansion of medical services
- Expansion of health care facilities
- Expansion of other services